Things you MUST understand if you are looking at "2013 FLL Results" and then at this list! With a few exceptions, once you have been determined that you have won a category... you are no longer eligible for an award in another category. The only exceptions are the Champion's awards and the Best Robot Performance awards. And since we run the robot finals, those as well. It's kind of hard to fudge whose robot won with everyone watching. BUT DON'T CALL ME IF YOU WON PROGRAMMING, THEN LOOKED AT THE TABLE AND SAW THAT YOU ALSO THINK YOU WON INSPIRATION! YOU CAN ONLY WIN ONE OF THEM. PERIOD. Our scorekeeper and judges work hard to work the magic of how that is all done and it is more an artwork than anything else. Trying to spread the awards out as best as possible and be fair, but we can't take into account that you MIGHT have WANTED Inspiration more than programming, we just don't know and there isn't time to ask everyone "If you had to chose between inspiration and programming, which would you chose?" ... and I'm just using inspiration and programming as an example, could be any combination.

Remember, we call for volunteers to serve on the planning committee, and that includes figuring out the best process for the competition. So if you think it can be better, one of the best ways is to volunteer to make it better.

2013 Maine FIRST LEGO League Championship: Award Category and Champions Ranking results

This chart shows the normalized scores (converting each to a 0-4 scale) and the winners are highlighted. NOTE: There are many times when several teams have tied scores and a different team wins the award. This can happen due to having already won a different award OR it can happen because the judge teams rank the best teams they've seen that day. So two teams may both have a 3.67 in a category, but the judges ranked them 1st and 2nd. Then if it gets bumped up the line, the different judge groups within a category can talk about the teams and figure out a final ranking to be given to the scorekeeper.

Normalized scores, with a 0-4 ranked system for each category
